

Remember My Affliction

*Remember my affliction and my roaming, the wormwood and the gall. My soul still remembers and sinks within me.
Lamentations 3:1*

“Remember My affliction,”
Stand by as I recall
The pain and the reproaches,
“The wormwood and the gall.”
The embers of Golgotha
Still smolder in My soul,
And flicker ghastly shadows
Across My memory’s scroll.

“Remember Me” in earnest
When everything is well;
Consider what I suffered
To save your soul from hell.
Rejected by My people,
Forsaken by My friends,
I took your guilt upon Me,
And died to make amends.

“Remember Me” together
With simple bread and wine.
While peals of ancient anguish
Re-echo as you dine;
For though I faced the terrors
Of Calvary alone,
I value your communion
With each recurrent groan.

Bud Morris
10/25/00
www.BudMorris.net