

Nailprints

(John 20:26-29)

When Thomas doubted that Christ was risen;
When questions raged in his troubled mind;
The Savior found him in his confusion;
And made this offer for all mankind:
"Just put your finger
Upon these nail prints,
And put your hand in
My wounded side;
And don't be faithless
Or unbelieving."
The resurrection
Can't be denied.

If my faith falters when I am tempted;
If I have yielded and gone astray;
If I've forgotten the God Who made me;
If I've forsaken the narrow way;
Please put my finger
Upon those nail prints,
And put my hand in
His wounded side.
Tenderly show me
How much He loves me;
Gently remind me
For whom He died.

If you've been wounded, and you are hurting;
If you are grieving deep in your soul;
If sorrows haunt you, and tears are flowing;
Come to the Savior and be made whole.
O put your finger
Upon the nail prints,
And put your hand in
His wounded side;
And feel the anguish
He suffered for you,
When He so cruelly
Was crucified.

When we have entered the gates of heaven,
And stand in awe of the holy place;
When we behold Him in all His glory,
And try to fathom His matchless grace;
Then we whose fingers
Have felt the nail prints,
Will take our place at
His wounded side.
His passion for us
Will be requited;
Our faith in Him will
Be justified.
